A Warm Welcome & Brief History

Kirbymoorside is noted as 'Chirchebi' in the Domesday Book (1086). It served as a trading hub at least since 1254, when it first became a market town. Through the years, two castles have stood in the town and stones from one of them were used to build the Memorial Hall in the centre of the market place.

The George and Dragon Hotel was originally a cruck-framed building in the 13th century but re-modeled with 2 floors on a 3 room plan in the 17th/18th century. The main part of the building is the original inn and the two bedroom areas were added to the property at a much later date. The inn keeper's private accommodation had a small living area where the current lounge is today and bedrooms upstairs, along with a handful of letting rooms. Prior to a family owning the Inn in the late 1960s (who did much of the development of the property), the small area by the fire was the only bar area, it would have been very small and dark.

Thankfully nowadays things have improved. The George and Dragon hotel is a family business run by Alison and David Nicholas and their daughter, Laura Moore, which makes for a unique and truly personal service. The mission is simple; serve top quality food, stock local ales and offer a great selection of wines in a relaxed and friendly environment. Enjoy!
